Alpha is in Danger!

Sociologists divide people into different generations, like Boomers, X, Millennials, Z, and the Alpha based on factors like shared historical events, life stage, Technological advancements, and social attitudes. Alpha is those who are born between 2010 and 2024.

It is believed that alpha generation is most advanced of all the others, but few cares about how the brains of alpha are being destroyed and emotions are being killed. They have become addicted to the digital world, without realizing the importance of organic life. In the 21st century humans are living focusing on an unrealistic world (Digital Word), most heads are bent, postures crooked, and almost every single eye is pasted to a digital screen. However, in advanced nations the so-called gen-Alpha is given particular attention. Unfortunately, On the other hand countries like Pakistan have a lesser focus on this issue due to unsettling and disturbing issues like political and economic instability and polarization in the society. Teens and children under teenage, besides being addicted to digital world they are also denied of their fundamental rights like education, they are being threatened and tortured. Unfortunately, they are being made disturbed and depressed generation instead of advanced or the so-called Alpha generation. Children are even kept out of schools let alone extracurricular activities. The figures are shocking, according to UNICEF estimated number of out-of-school children are 22.8 million in Pakistan, which is second highest in the world. About 3.3 million children in Pakistan are forced into child labor, losing their health and education. According to 'Cruel Numbers 2023' report by an NGO known as Sahil, 11 Children experienced sexual abuse each day 2023.

Every passing day we are learning about a news of minors rapped, tortured, and killed. A recent incident in small village of Larkana city where a boy was sexually abused inside a mosque is one of the disturbing and eye-opening examples of our society which is gradually transforming into a hell for vulnerable parts of society, particularly the children. These alarming numbers of rapes, child labor, forced-child marriages, and murders ask for special attention towards the future of the nation. The generation which is a near future of the country is in danger, minors are being tortured, sexually abused, and killed. They are not even safe in safe houses like schools and madrasas. Society, parents, and government must shift their particular attention to the so-called alpha generation to save them from being an anxious and depressed generation.

Effective measures like investing in primary education and making it compulsory, introducing new laws against child abuses, child marriages and child labor, and establishing a peaceful, supportive, and nourishing environment for children should be taken to make our so-called Alpha generation able to prosper like the alphas of developed nations and to compete in the world of advancement and technology.

OPEN MINDS

State and society should keep the future brains of the nation tranquil and healthy. We shall keep up generational cycles of poverty, inequality, and injustice if we do not make investments now in the more delicate and powerless segment of society.
